

Abstract

Higher education in Persian and Islamic culture and civilization, the dynamics of dating and the richness of the professional. With the beginning of the era of the Renaissance and the scientific and industrial progress in Western countries, in Iran as well as elements of higher education was created. Complex of higher education in order to enhance the research activities of the plat, meet the needs of research, policy-making and decision-making system of higher education in the country, and promote the transfer of knowledge in higher education, human resources development planning in the country. In this respect, the aim of the present study to review and assess the socio-economic effects of the higher education complex on the city of Saravan, Saravan and adjacent areas. Descriptive research analytical method based on a library of studies, research and documentation according to the type of field studies and surveys have been used, and for the analysis of data from the Arc Gis software, and models of the Electre tri, Swot is used.

Key words: Socio – economic, Integrated Higher Education, Saravan, Adjacent areas